

INTRODUCTION

JENNIFER BORRERO

At this time, please silence or turn off your cell phones. My name is (Your Full Name), and I am the (position) for (organization), and it's my pleasure to welcome you to today's program.

Jennifer Borrero is the daughter of Colombian-Mexican immigrants and is a social impact advocate based in Los Angeles, CA. From growing up in Alaska and working in canning factories to being an Ambassador for the United Nations, Jennifer's North Star has always been her belief that all people deserve to feel cared for, seen, and heard. In a time where individualism is praised, Jennifer emphasizes the importance of creating connections and community across cultures in an authentic way.

Jennifer tells stories of her experience working on international human rights issues and lessons learned along the way. Through these stories, she inspires students to realize they are capable and qualified of creating change even if they are still figuring out their own journey.

In her free time Jennifer loves to cook, and she is even a trained chef!

Jennifer's ultimate goal is to highlight innovative solutions to global problems while showing the American Dream is alive.

Please help me welcome Jennifer Borrero.

Updated 2.6.2023